A Farmer's Question

A farmer is to work with his head as well as his hands.

The farmer that studies best and then puts his plans in practice goes ahead.

Now The Citizen wants to ask a question of the mountain farmers, and to hear from thoughtful men their answers to this question: How shall a farmer fix things so he will have some money coming in at all seasons of the year?

Every farmer will agree that this is a big question. For instance, right now our crops are growing, big money is in sight, and yet many farmers find it hard to raise even a dollar for some little necessity in the house or on the farm. We have to borrow. Of course one trouble is that we did not use carefully enough the money we got for the things we sold last fall, but the question is how might we have planned to have lambs or some other products to have sold this spring so as to have other money coming in at the time we want it. The Citizen wants every farmer to study this question.

Reading The Newspaper

Everybody believes in good company.

If you walk with wise men you will be wise!
If you live with cheerful people you will be cheerful!
The biggest invention that has ever been made is the art of writing so one man could send his thoughts to people far away and have them handed down like the the Bible from one generation to another. Then comes the printing press so that the thoughts of one man may be shared by thousands.

The government understands that the man who reads is likely to be a wiser and better man than the one who does not. In many places the man who cannot read is not allowed to vote.

And what shall we think about the man who can read and does not do it? Or the man who can read, and reads things that are trifling or bad?

We are sending our children to school that they may learn to read. Now we must provide so that they will have something to read after they have learned so that they will get the reading habit.

God bless the book agent who brings to our doors some of the books that ought to be in every home.

And God bless the newspaper man who puts a good family newspaper into the home where children and parents can read it.

Early in the morning the warden of the Nassau county jail at Mineola, was aroused by Holt's frenzied cries. The man was pacing the floor of his cell, waving his arms and shouting over and over again:

Onslaught Met by the Enemy With Frenzied Obstinancy, but to No Avail - Austro-Germans Continue Advance-Russians Retreat.

London, July 6.—The German forces made a sudden and precipitate attack Le Pretre forest, charging with violent determination, and before the French troops could stop them had penetrated a quarter of a mile along a front of one mile.

The attack, small though it seems in comparison with the large movements in the eastern theater, was undoubtedly the most successful the Germans have made since their drive at Ypres in Belgium, two months ago. One thousand wounded French troops were made prisoners and all of the officers of a battalion staff were cap-New York, July 6.-Frank Holt, J. tured. The booty amounted to two

The engagement was begun, accord ing to the French statement, with little warning, the Germans apparently designing to catch their opponents unawares. It would appear that their design was carried out, especially in view of the large number of prisoners made, and the capture of the off cers of a battalion staff. The German statement says that the French troops defended themselves desperately, suffering enormous losses in killed and wounded in addition to the 1,000 troops made prisoners. The French statement says that a desperate attempt was made by the attackers to drive onward into the original French positions, but that this attempt was frustrated.

During the French attack on the St. Nihiel wedge nearly three months ago, it will be remembered that the Germans were driven entirely out of the positions they had held in Le Pretre forest. Since then there have been reports of isolated engagements in this vicinity, but neither side has deemed it advisable to launch a very vigorous attack.

The Germans today announce another success, though of much less importance, in the west. It was the destruction of a French blockhouse position near Haut Berleupt, south of Nerrey, on the Moselle. The French troops were driven from this position, Berlin says, after which the place was blown up and the fighting implements destroyed. The Germans then re tired on their original lines.

Reports from the eastern battle front are a repetition of weeks, the Austro-Germans, slowly advancing in all directions. The Russians, according to dispatches from Petrograd, are now north of Zamosc, over the Labunka river, their main army retreating and only the rear guards in contact with the enemy. The Germans announce victories at Blonka, Turobin, Tarnawka and Krasnik.

The Russians speak of the German advance as now being in the form of a crescent, which evidently means that one horn swings over the Russian Poland line down on the Bug river, and there is yet no junction between armies of General von Linsingen and the northern forces.

The Russians are not yet ready to give battle on any front of the southern section of the eastern zone. The ing safely.

Some Marvelous Exhibits at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition

Exhibite in Agricultural Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Show Caterpillar Gaining Favor Over Lug-wheeler Trac-tors in Farm Machinery.

An observer in the Agriculture Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco cannot help noticing, in the display of agricultural power machinery, the almost complete supersedence of the new design of power tractor, known as the caterpillar, over the cumbersome, unstable, high-wheeled engine of a few years ago. There are few of the old models on exhibition, while the caterpillar principle has been applied to almost every type of engine for agricultural purposes

The caterpillar proper is a heavy sheet metal chain, varying in width from ten inches to two feet according to the weight of the engine, which passes around two heavy sprocket wheels like a belt. These wheels revolving, pass the chain about them, the lower part moving backward, with the weight of the engine resting on the broad surface of the chain between the two sprockets.

An engine of this type can be operated on ground soft enough to mire an ordinary farm wagon.

Duplicate of the Roosevelt African

A duplicate of the shotgun which Col. Theodore Roosevelt took with him on his African trip, a gun constructed armorer, is on display at the manufacturer's exhibit in the Manufacturer's Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. The gun cost its illustrious owner $360, and its beautiful design, graceful lines and wonderful inlay work would justify the expenditure to any lover of fine pieces. The stock is elaborately hand carved, the barrels and lock are hand engraved, and the lock is inlaid with a hunting scene in gold. The barrels are of the finest Krupp steel. Before starting on the trip the ex-president wrote to the makers: "I really think it is the most beautiful gun I have ever seen. I am almost sehamed to take it to Africa and subject it to the rough treatment it will

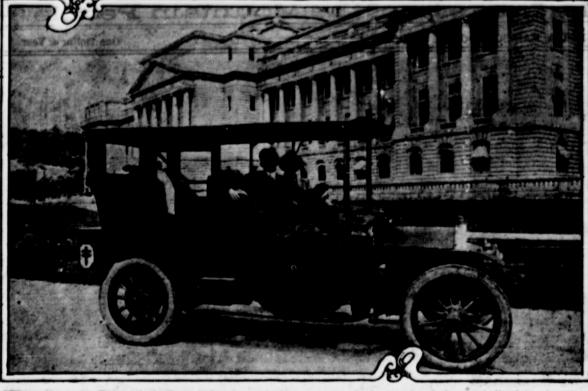

The left barrel is choked and the right open. It is cored to shoot either buckshot or a single ball.

In a group in this Palace are displays by four of the world's greatest manufacturers of sporting arms, which form an exhibit which attracts hun-dreds of sportsmen. Each display is in charge of a firearms' expert.

Pearl Culture a New Industry. Among the interesting exhibits of the Japanese in the Manufacturers' Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is a demonstration of the methods and results of pearl cultivation in the far East. The displays of this cultivated product, showing hundreds of pearls which until pearl culture was placed on a commercial basis a few years ago would have been the possessions of royalty, will delight any lover of beautiful gems, and the methods of production will prove interesting to any observer. Though pearl culture has be-come a thriving industry in Japan, attempts to reproduce it in other parts of the world have yielded but meager results.

The successful method of propagation was evolved by the Japanese scientist Kokichi Mikimoto, who discovered a species of oyster which produced the pearl on the surface of the shell. Though the finding of the oysters and inserting the nuclei, then waiting for the pearl to grow to a commercial size may seem a simple process, the fact that it has not reduced the price of the gems, even to that of the most expensive imitations, shows that it is beset with many diffi-

Daniel Webster's Plow at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

One of the most valuable exhibits commercially, in the Agricultural Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, is an ancient plow displayed in the Massachusetts exhibit, and forming a striking contrast to the highly-complex modern machinery displayed on the acreage of floor about it.

The plow owes its distinction to the circumstance that a hundred years ago Daniel Webster's youthful hands guided it along the furrows of his father's farm near Marshfield, Mass. It was drawn by a yoke of oxen and if the future peer of American orators and statesmen could turn an acre of sod a day he had to work from daylight to dark.

Taking Away the Stones

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE

TEXT-Take ye away the stone.-John

There are many stones of ignorance, perplexity, and belief which one encounters in Christian work, and it often requires great skill to remove them

Occasionally we meet a person who claims that there are so many conflicting opinions among Christians that he does not know what to believe. Remind him that the differences of opinion. as a rule, relate to minor matters.

such as the mode of baptism or the method of church government, and not to the vital question of salvation While they may differ some as to forms of worship and methods of government, it is foolish for one to allow his attention to be diverted to these side issues, and lose sight of the main question. Besides, it is an indication of mental laziness when one is not willing to search the Scriptures and form an opinion of his own. God has given us the Bible which reveals his will, and a mind capable of understanding it (John 20:31). God's will concerning the way of salvation is revealed so clearly that even a child can understand it. What excuse have we then for deferring our duty?

We have no right to hold this matter of repentance in suspense simply because there are some things in the Bible which we do not understand There always will be things in the Bible which we do not understand, and if we wait until all things are understood by us we shall never be saved. If we will obey that part of God's word we do understand, we will soon get light on some of the obscure things. I once met a man on the train who claimed to be a skeptic. He said there were so many different religions that he did not know what to believe. "One claims that we ought to worship Buddha and another Confucius. Some say that Mormonism is the true religion, and I suppose you would say that Jesus Christ was the only Saviour. In the midst of all these conflicting opinions, how is one to know what to be-

I said to him, "M; friend, did you ever embrace any one of those religions?" "No, sir."

"You remember the fable about the horse which stood between two stacks of hay. He was about to take a bite from one when there came a smell of clover from the other so inviting that he hesitated; then he caught a whiff from the other which led him to cause he could not decide which to eat from.

"Now m, friend, are you not making the same mistake which the horse made? Here you stand in the midst of all these religions starving your soul because you do not know which one to .hoose. Had you not better embrace some one of them, and do it quickly? If you think that Buddhism is the most promising become a Buddhist. If you think Mormonism is from God, become a Mormon. If you find salvation from sin in these religions continue in them, but if not, then accept Christ as your Saviour, and I am sure you will find salvation in him. He is the truth; seek no further But by all means embrace some religion, and do it quickly for you are starving your soul for the lack of some one to worship and obey."

what you say," said the man, "but this is my station and I must leave you. I am glad we have had this conersation and I hope we shall meet

Apparently the man was convinced of his mistake, and was becoming in-terested, but he was leaving the car and what could I do? I thought of the little package of leaflets which I I rushed out on the platform and gave them to him. One was the Christian life card, and the other was a leaflet written by Dr. J. W. Chickering of Washington, D. C. Before he died the author had the names of over seventeen hundred people who had written him or told him personally that they attributed their conversions to this

Daniel Webster states his position very clearly in a letter written to a friend: "I believe that God exists in three persons; this I learn from revelation alone. Nor is it any objection to this belief that I cannot comprehend how one can be three, or three one. I hold it my duty to believe, not what I can comprehend or account for, but what my maker teaches me. I believe religion to be a matter not of demonstration, but of faith. God requires us to give credit to the truths which he reveals, not because we can prove them, but because he reveals

LESSON FOR JULY 11

SOLOMON ANOINTED KING.

LESSON TEXT-I Kings 1:28-40.
GOLDEN TEXT-Know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and a willing mind. I Chron. 28:5.

"The king is dead; long live the king." Old and decrept at seventy years of age, a successor must soon take the shepherd king's seat of power. David's record is a wonderful one as an empire builder, an organizer and an accumulator of wealth. Read carefully I Chron, 29:28. Three characters are the most outstanding for our consideration in this lesson. I. David. (a) He had to make a selection (vv. 20, 27) but God used David to make his own choice of Solomon. Jedidiah, "the beloved of Jehovab." (2 Sam. 12:25), was he whom Jehovah desired to sit upon the throne. (b) David had a promise he must needs fulfill (vv. 17, 30). While his second son, who sought to usurp his throne, is engaged with his fellow conspirators (vv. 9, 41) in feasting and rejoicing in their supposedly easy victory over the aged father, David rallies and gives direction for the public proclamation of Solomon as king, thereby redeeming his promise. Many professed Christians treat their promises far too lightly. Bath-sheba emboldened by her need (v. 16) enters the king's chamber where now another ministers in her stead, and lays the facts of Adonijah's rebellion before David, concluding her petition with the dramatic words of verse twenty. Bathsheba's petition is re-enforced by the words of David's mentor, Nathan (vv. 22, 27). Turning again to Bath-sheba David emphatically reiterates his determination to carry out to the full God's commandments relative to his successor. Even in the hour of his departure David remembers that it is Jehovah "that hath redeemed my soul out of all distress" (v. 29). (c) David then gives careful command relative to the public proclamation of the new king (vv. 32, 35). Calling to his help his trusted and tried friends, Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet (see 2 Sam. 12:24, 25) and Benaiah the soldier (I Chron, 11:22-25), he directs them to place Solomon upon his own mule (v. 33) and take him to Gihon there to be anointed and proclaimed king in David's stead. Contrast David's scrupulous obedience regarding the use of horses (Deut. 17:16) with that of Absalom (2 Sam. 15:1) and Adonijah (v. 5). Note also it was the priest and the prophet alone who were to anoint the king (v. 34). In this we see a parable of the establishment of

This anointing was a symbol of dedication to God (Lev. 8:19-12) and turn again, and finally he starved to the oil of our anointing by the Holy pirit which is all essential and sufficient for the subjects of his kingdom (Luke 24:49, Acts 1:5-8). But as these were only outward form and symbol, they must petition Jehovah to keep the new king (v. 34). (d) David took no chances but steps aside fully, while he yet lived, that all question of Solomon's right should be removed the everlasting kingdom of righteousness by the Prince of Peace and not by means, or use, of the sword.

II. Solomon. (a) God-chosen. (I Chron. 28:5; 29:1). Solomon was the first son of David and Bath-shebs after their legal marriage. His name means "Peaceful" (see I Chron. 22:9) and may suggest the fact that David had found the peace of forgiveness. Solo-mon inherited the strength of David's maturity and chastening also, and through his mother, the wisdom of Ahithophel, whose advice "was as if a man had inquired at the oracle of God" "I believe there is some truth in (2 Sam. 16:23). (b) He was chosen because of intercession (ch. 1:17). The standing of the Christian is what it is in the sight of God because of one who intercedes on our behalf (John 17).
(c) He was chosen in the midst of controversy and as against antagonists (v. 5). So the Christian, chosen before the foundation of the world in Christ, also has great opposition and a dangerous antagonist and, like Solousually carry, and selecting a couple mon, he is secure in spite of the assaults of the evil one (I Cor. 10:18, Jude 24). (d) Solomon was chosen for a definite work (I Chron. 28:10). The sad spectacle presented today is to see so many professed Christians who seem to have no sense of responsibility much less an appreciation of their privileges in Christ Jesus. (e) Solomon was promised help (I Chron. 28:9) so are we and according to each day's duty "so shall thy strength be."
"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" (Phil. 4:13).

iii. Adonijah. (a) He was a self-se-lected king (v. 5) and as such lacked not only the approval of God but the ability to execute his designs. He had Joab the bloody soldier and Abiathar the jealous priest as his conspirators, yet all combined could not set aside the decree of God. (b) He was spoiled child. "His father had not displeased him at any time" (all his life, v. 6). True he was David's eldest living son, yet he was not in the line of God's selection. Throughout the history of Israel the elder is constantly set aside for the younger. He was lacking in many essentials.

"Catching" Tuberculosis, or Infection.

O the man who works for his living, falling sick with tuberculosis means a very real danger not only to his own life but to the lives of his wife and children as well. His weal-thier neighbor may lay aside his routine cares and "take the for tuberculosis without materially affecting his family's health or income. The consumptive workingman, on the other hand, must give up his job and with it his only income, and at the same time he is frequently compelled to remain at home, a constant source of danger to his family, unless he is properly instructed. It may save you who read this article considerable money and suffering if you learn from it how to avoid the entrance of tuberculosis into your body.

Tuberculosis is infectious and communicable from one person to another. It differs in some respects from scarlet fever, measles, or smallpox, so-called "contagious" diseases, in that tuberculosis requires repeated exposures and certain special conditions to pass the germs from the sick to the well. It is not inherited, but must be communicated through one of the following sources from one person to another:

(1) The infection is derived in the very large majority of cases from the sputum discharged from "open" or ulcerating tubercles in the lungs.

(2) A certain number of persons, chiefly infants, estimated variously from one to ten per cent. of all cases, receive the infection from the milk of tuberculous cows.

(3) A very few others may possibly obtain the infection from the urine and fecal discharges of consumptives or from the pus joints or other parts of the body which are the seat of ulcerating tuberculosis.

(4) In a few extremely rare instances the infection is conveyed through the blood of the mother to an unborn child, but the offspring seldom survive long.

(5) No infection can be conveyed from tuberculosis of the "closed" or non-ulcerated variety, or after ulcerations are completedly healed.

With regard to the manner of infection, still bearing in mind that tuberculosis must be communicated from one person to another, we find that by far the most frequent mode of infection is by inhalation; the second is by swallowing, and the least common, by inoculation of a wound or abrasion. Considering each of these modes of infection a little more carefully, we learn that:
(1) The baccilli are inhaled most often in dust. The dust is most often contaminated by careless spitting; but the germs may also be given out in the set of coughing (with the mouth unprotected) or hawking, sneezing, loud talking, singing or laughing. Quiet breathing carries no infection.

(2) The baccilli may be swallowed with food which has been contaminated with infected hands or otherwise, and also with the milk, butter and other dairy products derived from cows suffering from bovine tuberculosis.

(3) Inoculation by the infection of cuts, scratches, or abrasions is not frequently observed.

While no age, race, or class is immune against infection from tuberculosis, children are more susceptible than anyone else. At the age of 15, frequently as high as 75 per cent. of the population may show the presence of the germs, though not that many may be sick with tuberculosis. In view, however, of the fact that these germs may lay quiet in the body of the child for years, until with unfavorable surroundings his resistance is lowered, causing the disease to develop, it is extremely important that fathers and mothers do everything possible to keep their children away from danger of infection in their earlier years.

Everything should be done at home to keep the child rugged and healthy. The father and mother, whether they have tuberculosis or not, should be scrupulosly careful in their habits of spitting and person hygiene. The working father owes it not only to his own health, but to that of his children to avoid tuberculosis in every possible way.

Best Fair In the Middle West--- Numerous Attractions, Including John C. Weber's Prize Band of the World.

WILMINA HAMMANN, SOPRANO WITH WEBER'S BAND, BLUE GRASS FAIR, LEXINGTON, KY., AUG. 2 TO 7.

INCE its organization in 1906 the which bring together many of the most rank with largest and best state country. It has justly become known as the largest horse show in the world. It is the only fair which offers a full quota and a classification for breeding classes of the three great breeds of American horses as well as show classes, simplified and arranged in a manner which makes their distinction clear.

Pitched on a larger and more extensive scale than ever before, with the certainty of increased interest on account of various added features, this year's Fair promises to eclipse all previous records.

Numerous additions and improvements have been made in the matter of show rings and amusement features have been secured of a kind and to an extent that justify the belief that the Fair will not only prove more valuable than ever to the live stock interests of Kentucky, but also more attractive to those who visit it. In addition to the weanling and yearling divisions, five stakes are offered in the show classes for saddle horses.

Attractive Program Each Day.

One of the most attractive programs for the week will be on Wedn when the classes for standard bred horses will be shown.

In addition to the cash premiums offered, seasons to the leading horses in service are donated by various owners and should attract the attention of the entire horse world.

The Fair will open on Monday, Aug. 2, when an attractive racing program has been arranged, interesting show rings will be seen and John C. Weber's Band with some of the best soloists and popular singers known to the musical world will be here. High class artists will be heard in front of the grand stand in choice selections and popular ballads every afternoon and evening, and there is a great treat in store for the music loving public of the Blue Grass region.

On Tuesday, the 3d, the big mule show, always a most interesting feature of the Blue Grass Fair, will be shown, and the classes for poultry and pigeons will be judged in the Poultry Great show rings, including the $500 stakes for saddle bred colts, foals of 1915, the Kentucky stakes for five gaited saddle horses two years old, music by Weber's Band and Vocalists will help out a great program. On Wednesday morning the breeding classes for standard bred horses, as mentioned above, classes for Jack stock, the Blue Grass stake for five gaited saddle horses, stallion, mare or gelding four years old and over, etc., will be shown in front of the grand stand.

Thursday is always a great day, and an extra program has been arranged. The forenoon will be taken up with the breeding classes for American saddle horses, the prizes for which are particularly rich and desirable, and certain to bring about a magnificent show. In the afternoon will be witnessed the Kentucky stake for five gaited saddle horses for three years old and under and an excellent racing program for running and harness orses, also various rings in the show classes for roadsters, fine harnes horses, etc.

Friday will be Shetland pony day, in addition to a varied program of show classes, running races, harness races and other attractive features.

Thoroughbreds Saturday. Saturday is always known as Thoroughbred day, when we see rings grand sacred concert.

Blue Grass Fair has taken full noted thoroughbred horses from the greatest nurseries in Kentucky. In adfairs and expositions in the y. It has justly become known largest horse show in the world. Trap Rock, Watervale, Stalwart and others are offered.

The afternoon program is one of the most interesting of the entire week, as it includes all championships in which final contests occur between winners of the individual classes during the preceding days of the Fair.

The rule governing the classes requires all animals eligible to show in these rings or forfeit money won in the previous shows, and this rule will be strictly adhered to, thereby assuring large fields and affording the public the opportunity of seeing the winners brought together.

The week promises to be not only a gala one for Lexington, but a record breaking one in the history of the Biue Grass Fair.

Foot and Mouth Disease.

On account of the disease now prevalent throughout the country and the existing quarantines the management of the Blue Grass Fair has deemed it wise to eliminate the classes for cattle, swine and sheep.

They regret they are compelled to d so, but under existing circumstances could not do otherwise.

Ample Hotel Accommodations and Railway Facilities.

The comfort and convenience of all exhibitors and patrons will receive the careful attention of the management Convenient railway facilities, ample hotel accommodations and a better organization in every way for handling the crowds insure a pleasant and profitable time to all who accept our cordial invitation to attend this great an-

The board of directors desire to take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation to those whose efforts have helped build this institution and to ask for their co-operation in the future.

Speed Program.

Three running races and two harness races will be contested each day at the Blue Grass Fair Aug. 2 to 7, the conditions and classes to be announced at a The running races will be under the supervision of Mr. J. P. Ross, which assures an attractive program in that department. Purses will be given for trotters and pacers each day, the entries to which will close about ten days before the opening day of the Fair.

Rules of the National Trotting Horse association will govern all harness

Woman's Department.

The Woman's Department of the ue Grass Fair, to be held at Lexington Aug. 2 to 7, will be more important and extensive this year than ever before. The premium list has been revised, and classes offered cover almost every kind of woman's work and table luxuries. The third floor of the Art hall is given entirely to this department and is usually one of the most attractive exhibits of the Big Fair.

Half Fare Rates to Fair.

Do not fail to visit the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington the week of Aug. 2 to 7. One fare rates will prevail on all railroads in Kentucky. Every afternoon and evening, beginning Sunday, Aug. 1. there will be magnificent band concerts, with high class vocalists in a

WHAT SHOULD THE TEACHER READ? S. M. Haley

Every teacher reads; perhaps more at one time than another, but he has become fairly well acquainted with books, or he would never have had the ambition to become a teacher.

But with what line of literature should he make himself familiar, with respect to its benefit to his pupils?

Probably every one who starts out to do some definite work makes preparation. The one who makes the most thorough preparation, has, of course, the greatest degree of success. How much more preparation ought the teacher make than any other workman!

With preparation will come power, Then, first, in every teacher's library, we shall expect to find all manner of books and material bearing on the subjects he is teaching. There will be magazines, from which he will get new ideas on his work, or in which he will have articles concerning his own experiences and ideas. Especially, in the library of the rural school teacher we shall expect to find school magazines, published monthly or weekly. In these are found excellent pointers, illustrations for lessons in drawing, nature study, etc., also plans for other lessons, methods that have been tried and found successful. Second: we shall expect to find literature on present happenings, the needs of the school and the need of social work in connection with the school.

The school teacher, to be successful must be in sympathy with the scholars. He must do the best he can for each individual in the time at his disposal. Therefore, he must know character. Books on character building and character study will be found in his list. So will literature on how the needs of the people may be met by industry, social life and study.

Without variation and occasional inspiration any work will be monotonous. And the teacher, who thinks his lot the most monotonous, is correct, unless he is constantly looking ahead and providing himself with refreshment from his work, and inspiration to do his best in all his teaching.

Then the third class of literature contained in the teacher's library will be the lives of great leaders and workers, also productions of great authors; poems, essays, travels, histories and narratives. We shall find and yet helped.

We do not believe that there are any finer looking children in the state than we have on hand at the present time.

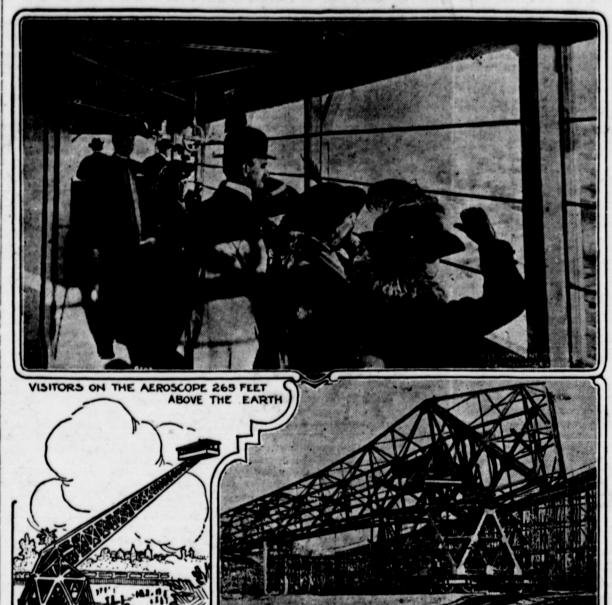

The conditions in the work are serious; if we do not place these children promptly, we will be compelled to ask the judges not to send us any more children until we can place a large number in homes. We do not want to do this, as we want the Institution open at all times to the call of the destitute, homeless child.

Will you not think of the need of each child for a mother and father, and if possible, send us a letter, telling us that you will take one of these little children into your home?

THE GIANT FRAME OF THE AEROSCOPE AS IT APPEARED UNDER CONSTRUCTION

For the seeker of amusement there is opportunity a-plenty in the unique mechanical achievement, the Aeroscope, on "The Zone," at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The Aeroscope resembles a giant crane of a novel and intricate design, its steel construction recalling that of the Bascule bridge. At the extremity of the iong arm of the crane is a two-story car with a seating capacity for 100 persons and standing room for 20 more. At the short end of the crane is a giant mass of concrete, which serves as a counter-balance for the long arm of the crane. Beneath the car are two great water tanks, which take on water or discharge it as passengers enter or leave the car, thus always preserving the balance to a nicety. When, for example, a man weighing 160 pounds enters the car an amount of water of equal weight is released from the tank, and when the passenger departs 160 pounds of water are automatically discharged into the tank below the car. The car ascends without perceptible motion, and perfect safety and a jarless ride of ten minutes is assured to passengers while enjoying this trip of 265 feet into the clouds, or four feet higher than the Ferris wheel. Two motors control the ascent and descent in conjunction with the counter-balance of the huge car, and when it reaches its extreme height it begins to swing slowly around on the wheels at its base, giving a magnificent view of the exposition, of San Francisco bay and of the city of San Francisco.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall's Exposition Message to the Nation

The Vice-President of the United States, after spending five days at the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, indited the following message to the people of the nation containing his appreciation of the great fair:

"The steps of my life seem to have been marked by national expositions. My young manhood began with the Centennial, maturity was marked by the Columbian and Louisiana Purchase, and now the sunset years bring me to this marvel of the Republic upon the shores of the sunset seas. So often have I thought I saw the Pillars of Hercules inscribed with their 'ne plus ultra' that I hesitate to say that I have reached them. But they who builded this Panama-Pacific International Exposition were so wise in adopting all the good features and avoiding those which marred the preceding ones, that to me it seems as near perfection as the mind and hand of man have ever wrought.

"Whoever can, even at a sacrifice of something which for the moment appears necessary, should come to see a real work of art never equaled, even by a mirage—If there be anyone in America with a thirst for knowledge and for beauty and a longing for a liberal education, such an one can here obtain it.

"This is the University of the world. It has a chair fully endowed to meet the wants and needs of each. The eye, the ear, the mind, the heart, the soul, each may have its horizon here enlarged. I came to bear a message; I remain to become a student; I leave the feet of this Gamaliel of all expositions with regret.

CHAPTER XX. Phoebe Triumphe.

RS. ABEL DAY had come to spend the afternoon with Aunt Abby Cole, and they were seated at the two sitting room windows, sweeping the landscape with eagle eyes in the intervals of making patchwork.

"The foliage has been a little mite too rich this season," remarked Aunt Abby. "I b'lieve I'm glad to see it thinnin' out some, so 't we can have some kind of an idee of what's goin' on in the village."

"There's plenty goin' on." Mrs. Day answered unctuously, "some of it above board an' some underneath it."

"Men are an awful trial," admitted Mrs. Day. "Abel never sympathizes the next day, an' all he said was, 'Why don't you try it an' see. Lyddy?' He thinks that's humorous."

"I know. That's the way Bartholo-mew talks. I guess they all do. You can see the bridge better'n I can, Lyddy. Those Baxter girls make a perfect fool o' that boy, but I don't s'pose Lois Boynton's got wit enough to make much fuss over the poor little creeter!"

Mark Wilson could certainly see Patty Baxter as far as he could see a sunrise, although he was not intimately acquainted with that natural phenomenon. He took a circuitous route from his watch tower and, knowing well the point from which there could be no espionage from Deacon Baxter's store windows, joined Patty in the road, took the pail from her hand and walked up the hill beside her. Of course the village could see them; but, as Aunt Abby had intimated, there wasn't a man, woman or child on either side of the river who wouldn't have taken the part of the Baxter girls against their father.

Meantime Feeble Phoebe Day was driving her father's horse up to the Mills to bring Cephas Cole home. It was a thrilling moment, a sort of outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual tie, for their banns were to be published the next day. hand of Miss Patience Baxter and a refusal of even more than common decision and energy, Cephas turned about face and employed the entire month of September in a determined assault upon the affections of Miss Lucy Morrill, but with no better avail. Cephas' belief in the holy state of matrimony as being the only one proper for a man really ought to have commended him to the opposite (and ungrateful) sex more than it did, and Lucy Morrill held as respectful an opinion of the institution and its manifold advantages as Cephas himself, but she was in a very unsettled frame woolng. She had a strong preference for Philip Perry and held an opinion. not altogether unfounded in human experience, that in course of time, when quite deserted by Patty Baxter. his heart might possibly be caught on the rebound. It was only a chance. but Lucy would almost have preferred remaining unmarried even to the withering age of twenty-five rather than not be at liberty to accept Philip Perry in case she should be asked. Cephas, therefore, by the middle of literatively described as being raw from repeated rejections. His bruised beart and his despised ell literally cried out for the appreciation so long and blindly withheld. Now all at once Phoebe disclosed a second virtue, her first and only one hitherto in the eyes of Cephas having been an ability to get on with his mother-a feat in which many had made an effort and few indeed had succeeded. Phoebe, it seems, had always secretly admired. respected and loved Cephas Cole. Never since her pale and somewhat glassy blue eye had opened on life had she beheld a being she could so adore if encouraged in the attitude.

October could be picturesquely and al-

The moment this unusual and unexpected poultice was really applied to Cephas' wounds they began to heal. In the course of a month the most ordinary observer could have perceived a physical change in him. He cringed no more, but held his head higher; his back straightened; his voice developed a gruff, assertive note like that of a stern Roman father; he let his mustache grow and sometimes, in his most reckless moments, twiddled the end

And then congratulations began to pour in. Was ever marriage so fortuitous? The Coles' farm joined that of the Days', and the union between the two only children would cement the friendship between the families. The fact that Uncie Bart was a joiner, Cephas a painter and Abel Day a mason and bricklayer made the alliance almost providential in its business opportunities. Phoebe's Massachusetts aunt sent a complete outfit of gilt edged china, a clock and a mahogany chamber set. Aunt Abby relinquished to the young couple a bedroom and a spare chamber in the "main part," while the Days supplied live geese feathers and table and bed linen with positive prodigality. Aunt Abby trod the air like one inspired.

"If only I could 'a' looked ahead," smiled Uncle Bart quizzically to himself, "I'd 'a' had thirteen sons and daughters an' married off one of 'em every year. That would 'a' made Abby's good temper kind o' permanent." Cephas was content too. There was a good deal in being settled and having "the whole doggoned business" off your hands. Phoebe looked a very different creature to him in these latter days. Her eyes were just as pale, of course, but they were brighter, and they radiated love for him, an expression in the female eve that he had thus far been singularly unfortunate in securing. She still held her mouth slightly open, but Cephas thought that it might be permissible, perhaps after three months of wedded bliss, to request her to be more careful in clos-

Cephas did not think of Patty any longer with bitterness in these days, being of the opinion that she was punished enough in observing his own growing popularity and prosperity.

"If she should see that mahogany chamber set going into the ell I guess she'd be glad enough to change her tune," thought Cephas exultingly, and then there suddenly shot through his mind the passing fancy, "I wonder if she would!" He promptly banished the infamous suggestion, however, reenforcing his virtue with the reflection that the chamber set was Phoebe's anyway, and the marriage day appointed and the invitations given out and the wedding cake being baked, a loaf at a time, by his mother and Mrs.

As a matter of fact, Patty would have had no eyes for Phoebe's magnificent mahogany, even had the cart that carried it passed her on the hill where she and Mark Wilson were walking. Her promise to marry him was a few weeks old now, and his arm encircled her slender waist under the brown homespun cape. That in itself was a new sensation and gave her the delicious sense of belonging to somebody who valued her highly and assured her It had been an eventful autumn for of his sentiments clearly and frequent-Cephas. After a third request for the ly, both by word and deed. Life, dull gray life, was going to change its hue for her presently, and not long after. she hoped, for Waitstill too.

The "publishing" of Cephas and his third choice, their dull walk up the aisle of the meeting house before an admiring throng on the Sunday when Phoebe would "appear bride," all this seemed very tame as compared with the dreams of this ardent and adventurous pair of lovers who had gone about for days harboring secrets greater and more daring, they thought, than had ever been breathed before within the hearing of Saco water.

NORA FINNERTY'S SIN

By GEORGE MUNSON.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.) Paddy Sheehan looked at Tim Mur-

"To quote your own words, Mr. Sheehan, were you not a penniless canine yourself once?" inquired Tim. "I was, sor. And proud of ut," answered the old man, relapsing into his native dialect. "And I made a million for meself by honest labor. When you've got started on the same way you can show your face here againnot till then. Will you get out or will I throw you out?"

That terminated the interview, But in justice to Paddy it must be said he secretly admired the young man and did not bear him any malice on account of his lack of means. He knew that Tim had the makings of a successful man, even though he was at present struggling along as a clerk in an insurance office. The fact was, he treasured his only child so much that he could not bear the thought of los-

This possibility so preyed upon his mind that he resolved to put into execution a plan he had long projected. "Kathleen, girl," he said to his daughter, "you may as well put the idea of that young pup out of your head. We're going to Ireland, which I haven't seen since I was a boy. We'll see the old home, and-and Nora Finnerty. Maybe she's married now, and maybe she ain't."

Kathleen knew all about her father's boyish sweetheart, whom he had promised to marry when he sailed for America years before. He had married another woman, but the memory of his first love had always been green with him.

It is probable that, in spite of her father's injunctions, Kathleen did contrive to see Tim before sailing. Anyway, hardly had the ship passed Sandy Hook than Mr. Sheehan, strolling upon the deck, came face to face with the young man.

"What are you doing here, you scoundrel?" he shouted.

"Pardon me, Mr. Sheehan," replied the young fellow blandly, "but I think am entitled to take passage aboard this ship."

"You're following me and Kathleen," roared the exasperated father.

"No. sir. I am on my way home to Ireland to visit my mother.'

"If I see you speaking to Kathleen I'll—I'll throw you into the engine room," warned Paddy, shaking his fist. Despite the most careful observa

All the way to Nora Finnerty's cottage he pointed out the old landmarks. By the time the little thatched building arrived in sight he was as enthusiastic as a boy. He drew up the car leaped down and stared into the wrinkled face of the old woman knittirg at the door. Then he flung his arms about her

"It's Note Finnerty, by all that's sacred' he shouted. "Don't you know me, Nora: I'm Paddy Sheehan-Paddy that used to be your sweetheart in the long age "

"Sure, he's me stepson," exclaimed the old lady. "He was my first husband's son.

Three times, said the old lady. "And," she added wistfully, as the car drove off, half an hour later, with a happy couple upon one seat and a joyous old man on the other, "I think I'll be off to Father Flynn and ask him if it's a mortal sin to have taken three husbands when I never had one, and a fine young man like that-me that never bore any childher."

FOR THOSE FOND OF ORANGES

Recipes That Will Appeal Particularly to Lovers of Healthful and Appetizing Fruit.

Oranges are so healthful they NOME should be introduced as often as possible; try these recipes:

Orange Delight .- Soak aalf a box of gelatin, or one envelope of powdered gelatin, in one gill of cold water fifteen minutes, now add three gills of boiling water, stir until dissolved; put into it half a pint of granulated sugar, three gills of sour or ange juice and the strained juice of one lemon, stand in cool place; harden in the refrigerator.

Place a couple of rounds of sliced orange in each individual dish, cover with the jelly, then a layer of soft custard or whipped cream as a mask. Serve ice cold with lady fingers.

Orange Icing.-Put one running-over tablespoonful of strained orange juice in a bowl, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of sherry wine or brandy, with the grated yellow rind of one small sour orange; let it stand for 20 minutes, then stir in half a teacupful of confectioner's sugar, then the slightly beaten yolk of one egg; stir, now add sufficient confectioner's sugar to make it the consistency to spread easily over the cake; it should not run; spread evenly, then put in a cool, dry place to

Slipshod methods are to be condemned everywhere, although I grant that time is wasted in the inside finish of frocks. SYSTEM OF CITY BUILDING

Practically the Same Principles Should Be Applied as in Commercial Development.

An important session of the convention of the American Civic association at Washington was that devoted to city planning, with Mr. John Nolen of Cambridge, Mass., vice-president of the association, presiding. In introducing the subject, Mr. Nolen said:

"The subject allotted for this session is 'City Planning, which needs in this association very little explanation, because it strikes at the root of so many of our civic problems. I think that it is true that all successful enterprises of magnitude have been planned enterprises; they have not come about by chance. In city planning we recognize that millions of dollars in money and many things more precious than money have been wasted because of a lack of plan. Our streets, our parks, our recreation spaces, our houses and homes, give ample evidence of all of this. The first step, it would seem, to-HINTS FOR THE ECONOMICAL ward the solution of our social and industrial problems is a comprehensive plan. We need transportation plans to solve our transportation problems; we need a zone plan to district our cities, to give stability to land values and to protect districts; we need an industrial district plan in order to give efficlency to industry, and we need a plan for homes for the workers because, upon rapid and cheap transportation of merchandise; upon the proper location of water and rail terminals and facilities; upon distributing routes; and upon contented people in good

"Be a Good Neighbor" Movement le Plan of Civic Association to Relieve Distress.

After Elbert H. Gary had written letters to President Wilson and Governor Whitman asking their help in accelerating national and state public works the mayor's committee on unemployed announced that it was ready to try out a new plan for relieving distress in this city to be called the "Be a Good Neighbor" movement.

The movement is described as follows by Charles Stelzle, the committee's director of relief and emergency measures:

"The plan has as its immediate purpose the securing of a considerable number of men and women who will assume responsibility for families or individuals whose need may consist of food, clothing, a doctor's service, medicine or a job. The 'good neighbor need not necessarily supply all these wants, but he may assist by directing the needy person to the agencies or persons prepared to do so However, no limit is to be placed upon the friendship and neighborliness which the 'good neighbor' may feel disposed to exercise. 'Good neighbors' will be given the preference as to the particular agency with which they would like to co-operate. If, for example, a"good neighbor" prefers to work only through the churches the case will not be referred the muffins give sufficient flavor of the to any charitable organization. The same principle will be applied to all other groups doing relief work."-New York Times.

Group Building Plan. A special feature of the building at what is known as "The Gardens," a section of Philadelphia, is the so-called "group building" plan. This plan makes it possible to buy a house of superior construction and enduring value for a lower price because of its being either semidetached or one of a group of three, four, six, eight or ten houses set contiguously in a row. These groups and rows add greatly to the beauty and variety of the building scheme. They have been planned so as to conform to land and road contours and are of different sizes and prices, with varying interior arrangements and architectural treatment. For instance, houses may be sold for less money than a detached house on a larger plot, but the group house purchaser has the same advantages in construction, and a richness and variety in the architectural treatment of the block unit, not possible with the smaller exterior surface of a detached house. That this novel building feature has been appreciated is shown by the fact that the group houses have been eagerly bought.

Self-Adjusting Piston Ring. Packing the pistons in an internal combustion engine is not an easy matter, and many are the plans made to circumvent the necessity of continually adjusting and packing loose pistons. A novel type of piston ring has been invented by a Boston manufacturer, in which the use of radial holes serves to equalize the pressure between the outer and inner surfaces. The piston rings have a slightly conical shape, which causes them to be forced tightly against the cylinder walls during the compression stroke, when the tendency of "downward crowding" is at its highest.-Scientific American.

Add flour to mix very soft and let the dough stand for an hour before rolling out. Cut into cookies a quarter of an inch thick and bake in a rather hot oven until a rich brown.

Pigeon Fricasses.

Cut eight pigeons into small piece and put in a stewpan, with one pint of water and the same of claret. Season with salt, pepper, mace and onion, a bunch of herbs, a piece of butter in flour; cover close and let stew until there is just enough for sauce; then take out the onion and herbs, beat up the yolks of three eggs, push the meat to one side and stir them into the gravy. Keep stirring until sauce is thick, then put the meat in a dish and pour over it.

Baked Oysters. Put a round of toasted bread into a small baking cup or dish. Spread with butter and fill the cup with oysters. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Fill as many cups as required, place them in baking pan in the oven, cover with a pan and bake about ten min-

FARM BOY'S ADVICE TO BOYS

Do Not Forget That Little Pieces of Work Are Trifles, and Trifles Make Perfection.

The farm boy must learn from the beginning to become a skillful farmer and take an interest in the work he does and the work that is going on

If he does some work that does not please his father he should not be scolded but, rather, encouraged and shown and helped to do the work right so he may not make the mistake the next time. If there is a cheerful, encouraging work spoken to the boy it will help

The boy should learn to do his work honestly and well and not to think this or that little piece of work too trifling to do, for the trifles make perfection.

If he will do his work well and nonestly he will have a clear conscience and be happier and more contented than if he did his work carelessly.

He will take pride in tending to stock if he is given a few of the farm animals as his own. He will feed and watch them growing with more pride than some older farmers themselves.

From one or two animals he may have quite a flock in a little time if they are well taken care of.

The boy may also take great interest in raising crops if there is a patch of ground given him to work and cultivate. He may feed the products of his work to his animals and he will feel better than if he were feeding the products of the fields that his father cultivated.

I do not think the boy should be kept too steadily at work for it will naturally become tiresome and he wants a change just as older people

He should be given some spare time to do what he wishes to do himself, and then when he does work he will work with more zeal.

I think the boy should go to school as much as he possibly can and not be kept at home too much, for then he will fall back in his studies and be too proud to go to school when he cannot keep up with his mates; and when he gets a rest in the winter he will delight in commencing the spring

The boy who lives on a farm will boys who live in town, for he can find many sports in the winter in the country that are not available to the boys in town.

If the farm boy tries to be contented, work on the farm, and by the help of the older people with whom he lives, become a good farmer—he will surely be contented.—Floyd Baker, Age Fourteen Years, Worthington, Pa.

Expressing Individuality.

To be oneself is quite a different thing from being unlike everyone else. Some girls seem to feel that the only way to express their individuality is to be a little startling. As a rule, the girls who dress and talk and conduct themselves in a way to make head turn, are not expressing their own per sonalities at all. The girl who is afraid to be herself, for fear she will seem different from other people, makes a more serious mistake—not quite as serious indeed—as the girl who makes a deliberate effort to be just a little different from everyone else.-Girl's Companion.

FOR ASPIRING YOUNG PEOPLE

1st Door—Berea's Vocational Schools

Training that adds to your money-earning power, combined with general education

FOR YOUNG MEN-Agricu ture, Carpentry, Bricklaving, Printing, Commerce and Telegraphy.
FOR YOUNG LADIES—Home Science, Dressmaking, Cookins,

Nursing, Stenography and Typewriting.

2nd Door—Berea's Foundation School

General Education for those not far advanced, combined with some vocational training. No matter what your present advancement, we can put you with others like yourself and give chance for most rapid progress.

3rd Door—Berea's General Academy Course

For those who are not expecting to teach and who are not going thru College, but desire more general education. This is just the thing for those preparing for medical studies or other professions without a college course. It also gives the best general education for those who wish a good start in study and expect to carry it on by themselves.

4th Door—Berea's Normal School

This gives the very best training for those who expect to teach. Courses are so arranged that young people can teach through the summer and fall and attend school through the winter and spring. thus earning money to keep right on in their course of study. Read Dinsmore's great book, "How to Teach a District School."

5th Door—Berea's Preparatory Academy Course

This is the straight road to College-best training in Mathematics, Sciences, Languages, History and all preparatory subjects. The Academy is now Berea's largest department.

6th Door—Berea College

This is the crown of the whole Institution, and provides standard courses in all advanced subjects.

Our climate is the best, but as students must attend classes regardless of the weather, warm wraps and underclothing, umbrellas and overshoes are necessary. THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE furnishes books, toilet articles, work uniforms, umbrellas and other necessary articles at cost.

LIVING EXPENSES are really below cost. The College asks no rent for the fine buildings in which students live, charging only enough room rent to pay for cleaning, repairs, fuel, lights, and washing of hedding and towels. Any able-bodied young man or young woman can get an education at Berea if there is the will to do so. It is a great advantage to continue during winter and spring and have a full year of continuous study. Many young people waste time in the public schools going over and over the same things, when they might be improving much faster by coming to Berea and starting in on new studies with some of the best young men and women from other counties and states.

Applicants must bring or send a testimonial showing that they are above 15 years old, in good health, and of good character. This may be signed by some former Berea student or some reliable teacher or neighbor. The use of tobacco is strictly forbidden,

Fall Term opens Sept. 15th. Get ready! For information or friendly advice write to the Secretary,

Berea Canning Outfit No. 50

Mr. Fletcher of the College Garden tried out our No. 50 Canner with following results:

3 bushels of beans broken and stringed made 52 quarts

Man labor for cooking and sealing	50c.
Woman labor for packing	13c.
Wood for fuel(boiling 27 minutes after fire was lighted	1)1oc.
52 quart cans	1.04
This is the Canner side of it.	$1.77
The Raising side amounted to:
3 bushel of beans @ 40c	$1.20
Stringing the beans @ 25c	75
	$1.95
This makes the total cost	$3.90
$3.90 divided by 52 equals 7½ c. per 3 lb. cans.

First class beans cost, per 3 lb. can, from 20 to 25c. per can.

This Canner is the Dreadnaught type so called because it put up anything, in anything-corn and lima beans and anything to be canned. Can use glass jars any size, quart or gallon tin cans.

No other Canner on the market has a record like our No. 50.

Price $12.50, f. o. b. Berea. We guarantee satisfaction or money back.

This Canner is built for hard service. It cans I can or 50 quart cans. It is worth $15.00. Order now.

Animal Should Be Pick of Litter and Possess Advantages of Good Breeding-Other Points.

Now is the best time to select your breeding sow from the early spring litters. In selecting her there are several points to be kept in view. She should be the pick of the litter, should have the advantages of good breeding. not necessarily of pure breeding.

She should have a full complement of teats, say twelve to fourteen, else she will be unable to suckle a big farrow. The little one which has not a teat to himself soon dies. She should be a kind feeder, not fastidious in her appetite, and she should possess a happy disposition, for a bad temper leads to the destruction of many little ones. She should be kept growing, but not too fat, and bred at about five months old.

DETERMINE AGE OF CATTLE

Fairly Accurate Idea May Be Had by Observing Teeth-Time of Appearance of Incisors.

The calf when born has two pair of incisors, the other two pair appear during the first month. When a calf is eighteen months old, it loses the middle pair of milk incisors, and grows a permanent pair. The next pair, one on each side, is replaced at twenty-seven months of age, the third pair at thirty-six months, the fourth or outside pair, at forty-five months. The time of appearance of these incisors varies within rather narrow limits, so that we are able to tell the age of young cattle fairly accurately.

The calf also has a temporary set of molars, which are later replaced considered in estimating the age of the animal.
